

We met 6 years ago and quickly became good friends. Our friendship evolved into love, but we were hesitant to express our feelings. When we finally did, it was heartbreaking to learn that she had started talking to someone and had to leave the country. Despite this, we stayed in each other's lives, providing comfort and support. Her move brought trust issues, communication gaps, and emotional distance. But every time we reconnected, it felt as though no time had passed.

Over the years, we both tried other relationships, but our hearts always led us back to each other. Nature conspired to reunite us, reaffirming that we were meant to be together. Exhausted from the cycle of separations and reconciliations, we decided to fully commit to each other.

"He Proposed | I Said Yes" We worked on improving communication and affection despite the miles between us. We spoke to our families, shared our intentions, and with their blessings, we embarked on a new chapter.

Today, as we stand on the brink of forever, we reflect on our journey with gratitude. Our love has endured every challenge, and we are overjoyed to start this new adventure as husband and wife. Here's to the beautiful life we are about to build together, the lessons learned, and the love that has brought us to this moment. True love is worth every hurdle along the way. #DANNEL 2025
